Meet City of Winter Springs Application Specialist William Hackney! William has been with the City for over two years and enjoys working on a diverse spectrum of projects and learning everyone's job functions. As an Application Specialist, William handles data management, technical documentation, procedure writing, and training others in software tools. His role primarily assists city staff with the technology and software tools needed to keep our City running smoothly.

One of his significant projects included helping the Winter Springs Police Department with vehicle GPS needs. William said, “ I feel a great a sense of accomplishment when I can contribute to my community by assisting the Police department with their vehicle and GPS needs. I feel like the GPS and Fleet services project has been a success.”

William has a college education in Computer and Information Sciences, which contributes to the high quality of work he can perform. William is very knowledgeable about the many programs and tools staff use to perform their jobs.

William loves traveling and adventures in his free time, particularly with his father. Their latest trip was to the Florida Everglades. The Florida Everglades is the only place where alligators and crocodiles cohabitate.

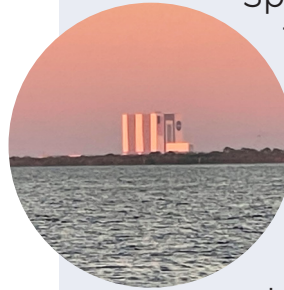

“I ended up seeing one the first day of my trip about two feet away from me. I love to be in nature and see new things.”

William has also enjoyed trips to Volusia County Gemini Springs and Green Pond

Spring. William and his father also enjoy trips to Titusville to watch the rocket launches when possible.

In January, William and his father attended the Scottish Highland

Games. They were able to visit the Macneil clan tent in memory of his grandmother. William learned about his ancestor's history. He also enjoyed watching the bands play music and, of course, watching the traditional athletic games. In his closing thoughts about the event, he shared his favorite thing about the games, saying, “the main thing was seeing where our people are from.”

The City Of Winter Springs is glad to have William on the team.
